Emmanuel's 14th annual Founders' Day will celebrate "Mission in Action" and commemorate the founding and continuing mission of the College, on Thursday, February 2nd at 4:00 p.m. in the Auditorium. The entire College community is encouraged to attend this special Emmanuel event. Founders' Day is also a component of the First-Year Experience and will recognize first-year students during the program.

This year's Founders' Day will honor the life of Sister Dorothy Stang, SND, who was murdered last February while carrying out the social justice mission of the SNDs in the northern Amazonian regions of Brazil, where she lived and worked for nearly 40 years. Sr. Dorothy was committed to working to combat the social problems that existed for the landless people and small farmers in Brazil.

Speaking on Sr. Dorothy's work to fulfill the mission of the Sisters of Notre Dame de Namur will be Sr. Barbara English, SND, who was among the group who traveled to Brazil with Sr. Dorothy. Sr. Barbara will discuss the challenges that the Sisters faced while working in Brazil and the call to action to continue their ministry. She is currently Director of the Julie Community Center in Baltimore, Maryland.

Sister Janet Eisner, SND will begin the program, addressing the shared heritage and mission of the Sisters of Notre Dame and the College, and "Mission in Action" in the Emmanuel community.

A special dinner for students in the Marian Hall Dining Room will conclude the campus-wide celebration, and Sr. Barbara English will be available for conversation.

Alumni Explore "Politics in the Name of God"

The 2005-2006 Alumni Association Seminar Series began with "Politics in the Name of God" on Sunday, November 6th, a lecture by Assistant Professor of Religious Studies David M. Gides, Ph.D. Gides spoke on the theological, historical and social foundations of political involvement between Christians and Muslims.

Dr. Gides discussed the historical development of responses by Christians and Muslims to political events. The lecture explored both the sources of political responsibility in these religious traditions as well as certain historical movements and events that exemplify the forms of political action or responsibility. The Christian portion of the lecture included discussion of pacifism, just-war and aggressive wars, such as the Crusades. The Muslim portion of the lecture focused on the many meanings of the term "jihad" and the possibility of a Muslim version of just-war theory. The discussion included a comparison of these two traditions.

New Task Force Addresses Smoking Issues on Campus

The College has recently formed a Smoking Task Force, composed of representatives from the student body, Residence Life, Counseling and Health Services, Security, Public Relations, Facilities, Student Activities and Finance and Administration, to review the current smoking policy at Emmanuel. This policy states that smoking is prohibited within 50 feet of any building. This policy's goal is to promote the health and comfort of both members of the College community and visitors to our campus, and to maintain a clean environment.

The task force realizes that in inclement weather, it is a challenge to maintain a 50 foot distance from residence halls and administrative buildings, so a plan has been put into place to erect a gazebo on campus in the next several months. At the current time, ashtrays are available in three locations: the corner of the Jean Yawkey

Center by the flagpole; alongside the wall on the quad near the Jean Yawkey Center garage; and in the library parking lot.

The task force hopes that all members of the community will cooperate in terms of adhering to and enforcing this policy, and the proper disposal of cigarettes. Please contact Vice President for Finance and Administration Neil Buckley at buckley@emmanuel.edu with any questions.

Emmanuel Hosts Speakers for National AIDS Awareness Month

Several Emmanuel College student clubs and organizations marked National AIDS Awareness Month last semester by bringing two prominent lecturers to campus, Prince Cedza Dlamini, grandson of South African leader Nelson Mandela, and Christina Rock, an advocate for HIV/AIDS awareness.

Prince Cedza Dlamini kicked-off events at Emmanuel with a lecture on November 29TH sponsored by Uprising! Magazine, the Black Student Union and the Emmanuel College Speakers Bureau. A humanitarian, social entrepreneur and visionary of social justice, he is a descendent of freedom fighter King Sobhuza II, who fought for the independence of Swaziland. Prince Cedza is a spokesperson for the United Nation's Millennium Development Goals, which aims to eradicate poverty, hunger and disease in Africa and around the world within the next two decades.

Prince Cedza spoke of the startling facts about HIV and AIDS in the world and the actions that the youth of the world can take to fight the spread of the deadly disease. His talk touched upon many areas of discussion, including the media's effects on HIV/AIDS awareness, economic issues, the sociology of areas most affected by the disease and gender issues. He stressed the importance of groups such as those at Emmanuel College that work toward social justice. At a reception following the lecture, students had the opportunity to speak with Prince Cedza.

On December 1ST, the Peace and Justice Club sponsored a World AIDS Day lecture featuring Christina Rock, who spoke on living with HIV. Rock is affiliated with Hope's Voice, a national HIV/AIDS organization committed to promoting the education and prevention of HIV/AIDS to young adults through speaker appearances and programming.

Coaching Philosophy, Player Determination Pay Off for Men's Hoop

The men's basketball team's 65-62 win over first place conference foe Norwich University on Saturday, January 21ST punctuated the turnaround the squad has made over the last two seasons. With a talented core of young players and a coach with experience, drive and a strong belief in the system he has developed, the Saints have their sights set on a GNAC championship.

Head Coach
Jamahl Jackson

In the program's first three years of existence, the team went 22-54. Coach Jamahl Jackson took over for the 2004-2005 season after having been both an assistant and an associate head coach since 2001. And, the results? The team went 17-10 overall and 13-5 in the conference, making it to the semifinals of the GNAC tournament.

As of January 25TH, the team stands at 8-1 in the conference, with its only loss to the very team it recently triumphed over – an overtime defeat to Norwich earlier in the season, 84-82.

For Coach Jackson, who also serves as Assistant Athletic Director and Recruiting Coordinator for the College, the team's success is rooted in its discipline, diversity and the willingness of its players to buy-in to his philosophy – to work hard on the court, on-campus and in the classroom.

"My philosophy is to bring in talented athletes, but to also recruit good students and good people," said Coach Jackson. "Players come from all backgrounds and geographic areas – city, rural, suburban. It provides a very rich environment for the players and the team is like a family."

Coach Jackson, along with his staff (assistant coaches Ted Cottrell, Howie Harrison, Darwin Zook and Steve Tower) promote an up-tempo, pressure-defense structure, playing 9 to 10 players per game. This season, five players are averaging in double digits in scoring, including freshman Mack Spellman of Clinton, NY (15.1 points), freshman Rob Williams-Hinton of Detroit, MI (13.1 points), and captains Levi Smith '08 (Tulsa, OK), Brian Lindsey '08 (New Orleans, LA) and Toliver Thomas '07 (New Orleans, LA) with 12.8, 11.9 and 11.6 points respectively.

Mack Spellman, a forward who led the team in the win over Norwich with 19 points and 9 rebounds and scored 27 points in a 83-68 win over Suffolk on January 24TH, sees a bright future for the team.

"We have a team unlike any I have been a part of or have even heard of," said Spellman. "I feel like I have walked into a program on the rise and by the time I am a senior, I can see Emmanuel College as being one of the best Division III teams in the country."

With two juniors and one senior, the team has a strong nucleus not just for this season, but well into the future. Coach Jackson said of the team, "They want to get better. They play hard, correct their mistakes and can see their own potential."

Off-court success is key for the men's basketball program, as well. In his role as a full-time administrator, Coach Jackson is able to become an integral part of his player's day-to-day lives. Academic success is heavily stressed, with assistant coaches conducting study groups four nights a week for athletes needing extra advisement. Personal success is also a priority. The coaching staff requires that players wear a shirt and tie on game days.

"It puts them in a successful mind-set, to get focused and to feel good about themselves," said Coach Jackson, a former Division I player himself at the University of New Hampshire.

The College's impressive gymnasium in the Jean Yawkey Center has been a major draw in terms of recruitment, but has also been a winning venue for the Saints. In the 2004-2005 season, the team went 12-2 at home, including a 9-0 GNAC mark at home.

The Saints have logged impressive wins this season over such teams as Rivier, Western New England College and Daniel Webster. Its two upcoming match-ups with Emerson College on January 30th and February 16th are much-anticipated because the Lions have become a conference rival over the last couple of seasons.

"The rapid rise of the men's basketball team to the upper tier of the Great Northeast Athletic Conference is a credit to Coach Jackson, his staff and the talented young men on the squad," said Director of Athletics and Recreation Pam Roecker. "For a team to be competing for a championship in only its fifth year of existence is amazing. We are proud of their achievements this season, yet we know they have many more goals left to accomplish – and we are going to enjoy watching them as they continue this journey!"

Player honors this season have included Thomas being named to the Tip-Off Tournament All-Tournament Team, and Spellman and Williams-Hinton being named to the College of Staten Island's Tournament of Heroes All-Tournament Team. Smith and Lindsey gained GNAC Weekly Honor Roll honors and Spellman was GNAC Rookie of the Week in both December and January.

"We have come a long way in a short amount of time. We are a really young team so we have had to learn things very quickly," said Williams-Hinton. "The trip to New York [for the Staten Island Tournament in December] really brought us together as a team and since then we have been playing great and we continue to get better each day. Coach Jackson and the other coaches want us to work hard, and everyone practices hard. That produces the results in games."
